Half Of German Fleet Exposed To Enemy Now

French Premier Sees Nazi Naval Arm In Handicapped Position

ALLIED NAVIES TO UPHOLD TRADITION

Reynaud Declares Invasion Of Denmark And Norway By Nazis To Be Failure

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, April 10.—Nazi Germany has now exposed half of her high seas fleet to the combined navies of Great Britain and France and the latter "will live up to their great traditions," Premier Paul Reynaud told the French senate today.

In addition, the premier revealed, German ships which carried out the occupation of Narvik are now blockaded and "bottled up" in that far northern harbor.

"According to our information," he said, "half of the German fleet which hitherto refused to come out of harbor is at present exposed to the Allied fleet.

"Let British and French sailors feel assured that we are following them in their battle with all our hearts and with full unanimity."

Fight To Finish

Expressing the Allies' firm determination to fight Germany to a finish, Reynaud characterized the Reich's Scandinavian invasion as a failure. He declared that "not a single ton" of Swedish iron ore would henceforth reach Germany from Narvik, one of the German-occupied ports in Norway.

"Once her temporary booty in Denmark has been devoured," Reynaud said, "Germany will no longer be able to obtain supplies from either Denmark or Norway.

"From now on, these 'windows' on the North Sea will be closed. Adolf Hitler has often boasted that he would not scatter his forces, but now he has been obliged to greatly enlarge his front."

Reynaud described the Scandinavian invasion in considerable de-

Owen Fox, recently sought to add to the number of occupants of his animal house in Gaston Park. He gained one but lost another. A few days ago, he secured a female raccoon, thus making a pair in the enclosure. The next day, the "coon" took an aversion to the groundhogs in the next cage. It worked its front paw through the close heavy wire partition, and seized with its vise like claws, one of the female groundhogs, holding on until the latter was strangled. Ordinarily, the raccoon seems a docile creature, still it is a vicious animal, and can cause much destruction with its front paws. Raccoons often make raids on poultry yards, getting away with many chickens. They also visit streams, and artfully capture fish. Mr. Fox has observed these animals put a paw in the water and allow crabs to seize the claw, then the crab is drawn out, soon unloosed, trimmed up and becomes a nice snack for the "coon."

Mr. and Mrs. Ramsey were married on April 10, 1869, with Rev. John McCrumb, pastor of the New Wilmington Methodist church officiating. They have spent their entire

Loss Of Two Cruisers Admitted By Nazis

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, April 10.—Nazi Germany today admitted loss of the Cruisers Bluecher and Karlsruhe during the military occupation of Norway but declared the Allied attempts to break the Reich's stranglehold on Scandinavia had ended in dismal failure.

In official German announcements, the British navy was deprived of any credit in the sinking of the 10,000 ton Bluecher and the 6,000 ton Karlsruhe, both important units of the small but fast Nazi fleet.

Mine Struck

The Bluecher sank after striking a mine, a communique by the German high command declared, while the Karlsruhe went down as a result of damage inflicted by Norwegian shore batteries in the course of a series of encounters accompanying Germany's extension of a "protectorate" over the Scandinavian states.

Meanwhile, Germany moved for-

TWENTY BRITISH SAILORS KILLED

BULLETIN
(International News Service)

STOCKHOLM, April 10.—An estimated 540 Norwegian and more than a score British sailors were killed in a German destroyer attack against ships in Narvik harbor during yesterday's German occupation, according to reports in Stockholm today.

Two German destroyers launched the attack. They sailed into the Norwegian port at high speed, the reports said, and fired a sudden volley of torpedoes which sank two Norwegian coastal defence warships, the 4,166-ton Norge and Eidsvold.

Of the two Norwegian ships, combined crews totalling 560 men, only 20 were rescued, among them the Norge's commander. Five torpedoes struck the Norge in quick succession, Narvik advices said.

The German naval attack was supported by a fleet of bombing and fighting aircraft. Two steamers, one British and the other unidenti-

Britain Will Fight On In Behalf Of Norway Against Nazi Invasion

BY ROBERT G. NIXON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 10.—Britain will fight on in behalf of Norway even if the Norwegian government elects to negotiate with Nazi Germany, Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax declared today.

In a speech to the National Defense and Public Interest Committee, Lord Halifax reaffirmed Britain's determination to strike back at the Reich for her armed invasion of Scandinavia.

Speaking of reports that King Haakon and his government were negotiating with Germany, the foreign secretary said:

Action Under Duress

"If these are well-founded, there is no doubt whatever that the allied governments will only regard this as an action taken under duress.

"It will in no way whatever affect our determination to resist in behalf of powerless Norway this brutal extension of violence and extension of German strategic power in the North Sea and the Atlantic which it would be impossible for Great Britain to accept.

"We cannot exactly judge the German motive in opening war on Scandinavia.

"It may well be the result of some internal weakness in Germany of which we perhaps are not wholly aware.

"But this we can say with certainty: It is not unlikely to be of unmixed advantage to Germany.

"I think that in these events lie a moral for neutral nations.

"Great Britain and France at any moment in the last six months could have occupied any port in Norway that we chose, and this kind of thing, I venture to think, is liable to happen if neutrals are not pre-

President Has Wide Margin Over Garner In Primary Vote In Illinois

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 10.—President Roosevelt today held an overwhelming lead for a third term renomination as a result of the Illinois and Nebraska primaries—but in the face of signs that the farm belt is once more Republican.

Racket-buster Thomas E. Dewey meanwhile gained fresh prestige by sweeping the Republican presidential primaries in both states. In Nebraska, he trounced Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, Mich., for the second time in eight days, while in Illinois he rolled up an impressive vote though unopposed. The Illinois vote however was not binding on the state committee, which will choose the delegates later.

Goes Republican

National politicos regarded the balloting in the first Nebraska congressional district as of more significance than the anticipated results of the presidential primaries. The Nebraska "first" went Republican by a 7,000 majority in a special congressional election, after having been Democratic since 1922. Two years ago, the G. O. P. elected a congressman there but only because there were two Democratic candidates who split the vote against him.

The Republican trend in the "first" was supported by the statewide balloting in Nebraska. It appears the state went Republican by around 35,000 on the basis of the presidential and senatorial primary returns. In 1936, Nebraska gave Mr. Roosevelt a 98,723 plurality.

Protectorate Over Greenland May Be Move By Britain

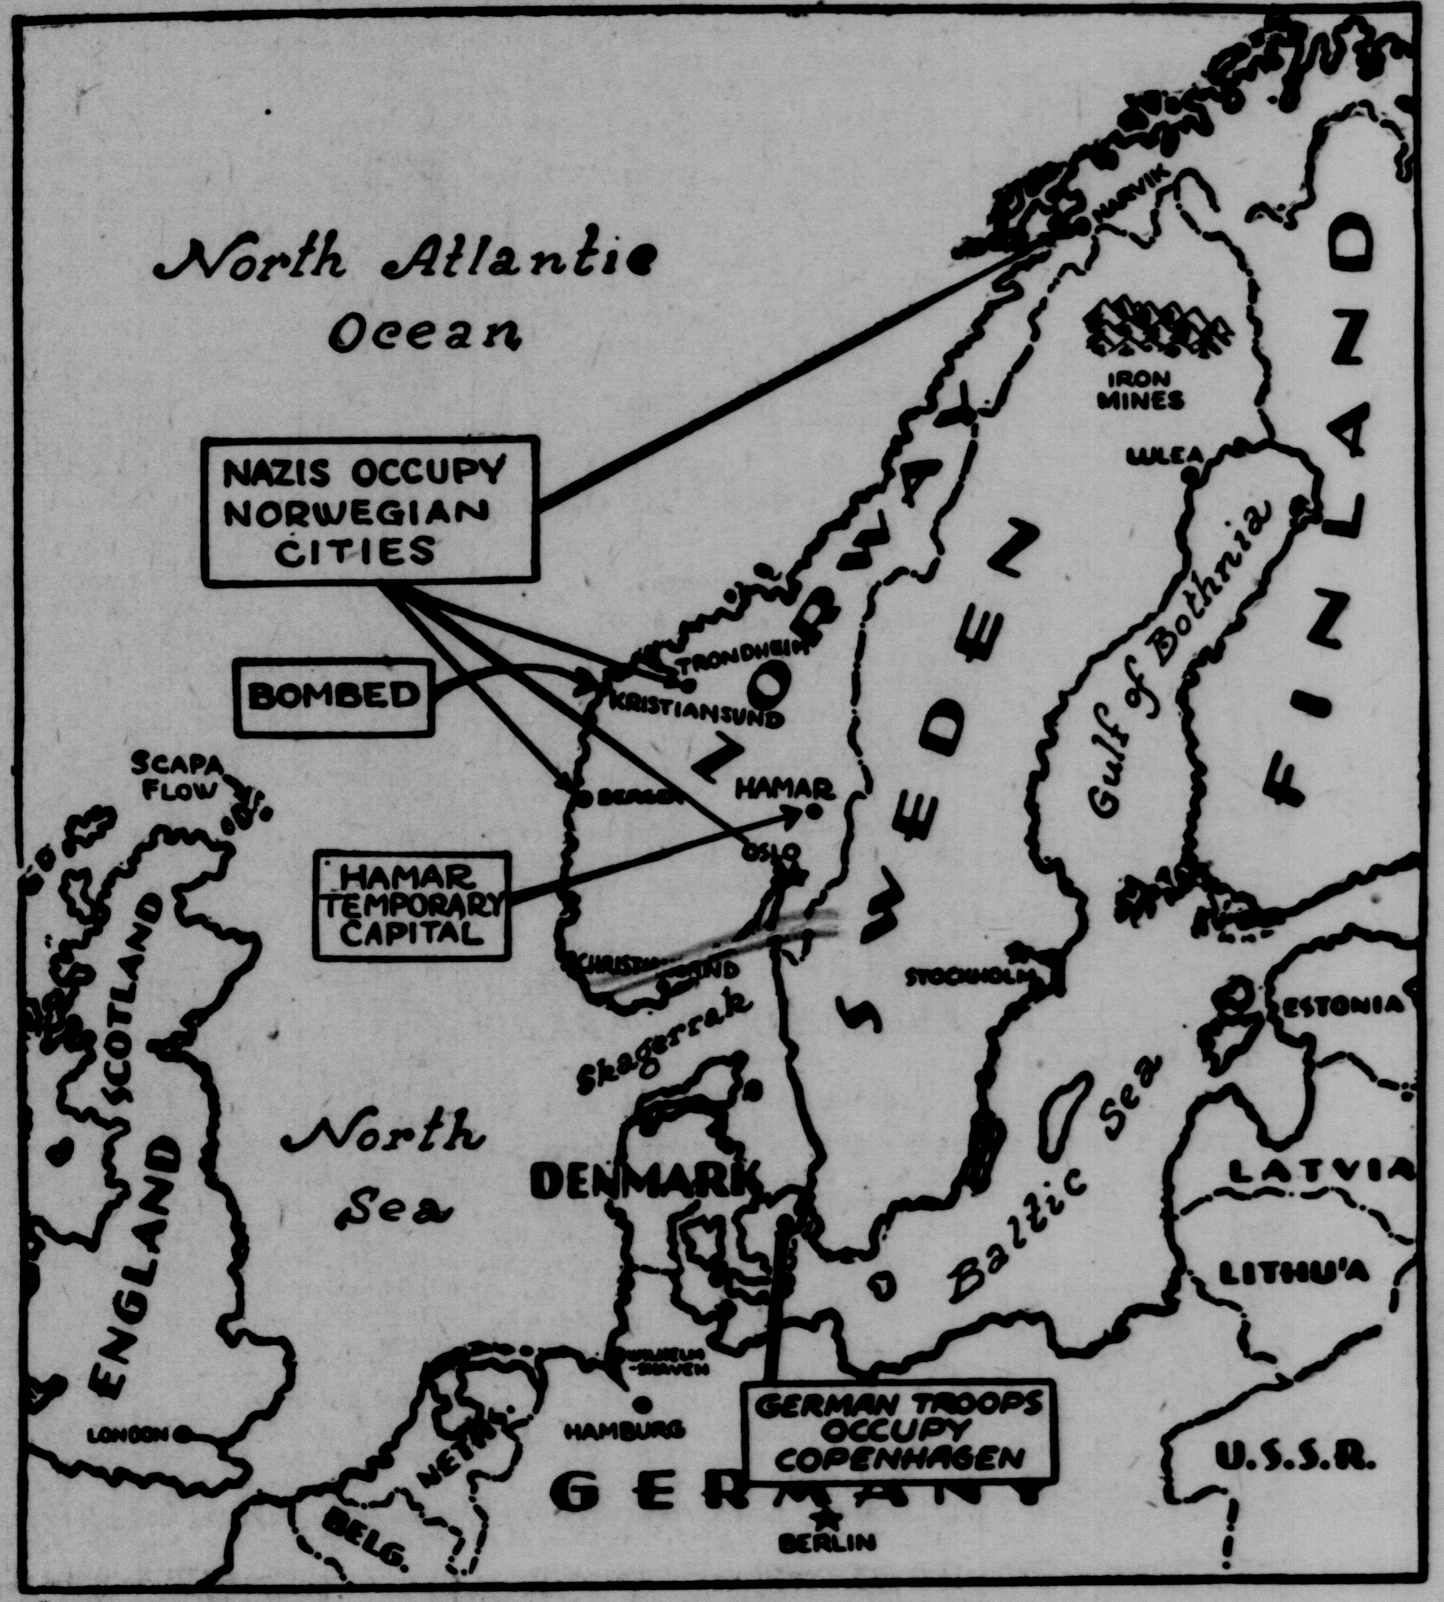
LONDON, April 10—Great Britain may declare a "temporary protectorate" over Greenland, Iceland and the Faroe Islands, dependencies or possessions of the Danish crown, it was learned on reliable authority today.

This action may be taken, it was said on the grounds that Denmark is now defacto enemy territory. Spokesmen asserted that Britain has no intention of permitting Germany to lay claim to these territories.

As War Spreads To Scandinavia



Here is the new theatre of war, with Germany invading Scandinavia to "protect" the north countries from Britain. Helpless Denmark submitted under protest. Norway resisted and announced it was at war with Germany. Sweden ordered full mobilization. Britain and France announced they were sending immediate help to the invaded countries. Latest reports indicate British and German naval units in battle.

Two British Destroyers Lost In Norway Battle

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, April 10.—Two British destroyers were put out of action and a number of German cruisers were believed to have been sunk or damaged today in a series of engagements along the western coast of Norway.

The fighting occurred in what London believed to be a prelude to a concerted attempt by the Allies to land forces in Norway and wrest occupied ports and coastal areas from the Germans.

Destroyer Sunk

A British admiralty announcement stated that the British Destroyer Hunter was sunk and the Destroyer Hardy ran ashore during a naval engagement at the Norwegian port of Narvik. The Hunter, a 1,340-ton vessel, carried a normal complement of 145 men, while the Hardy, 1,530 tons, carried 175.

According to the admiralty, the other British destroyers participating in the Narvik engagement withdrew after the Hunter sank and the Hardy ran aground. But the announcement cited an unconfirmed report that a German cruiser had been sent to the bottom.

Conflicting Claims As To Heavy Losses Are Made By Both Sides

NORWEGIANS FIGHT GERMANS ON LAND

German And Norwegian Ships Also In Battle—Steamer Is Sunk

(International News Service)

Germany and the Allies were locked today in a death struggle off the Norwegian coast in the greatest combined air and naval battle in history. At the same time, Norway's fighting forces, apparently recovering from the first shock of the German attack, rallied and struck gamely back at the invaders.

Conflicting claims of the contestants in the dramatic sea struggle shrouded its progress in doubt. Claim and counter claim came from Paris, Berlin and London. There was a strong probability that the fateful encounter is still in an inconclusive stage.

Germany jubilantly proclaimed that eleven allied warships had been hit by bombs and that a heavily armored British flying boat had been shot down. The modern, 26,500 ton French battleship Dunkerque, according to Berlin, was among the damaged warcraft.

Reports Conflict

Britain reported that only the destroyer Hunter had been lost and the destroyer Hardy forced aground near Narvik, although two other destroyers, the Hotspur and Hostile, had been damaged by German bombs. Only negligable damage, said London, had been done by flying bomb splinters to two British cruisers. By contrast, the London Daily Express said it understood six German warships had been sent to the bottom.

On definite admission was made by Berlin—that the 10,000-ton heavy

Great Britain Not Informed

Advises That Report Of Negotiations Be Taken With Great Reserve

SAYS REPORT MAY HAVE BEEN INVENTED

(International News Service)

LONDON, April 10.—Official British quarters announced today that they had no confirmation of report that the Norweigian government is preparing to negotiate with Germany and advised that all such reports should be treated with "great reserve".

These circles asserted it was "not beyond the bounds of possibility" that the Germans had contrived to invent the reports and to issue them from Oslo with the object of discrediting the Norweigian government headed by Premier Johan Nygaardsvold.

(Germany announced yesterday that a new Norweigian government headed by pro-Nazi Major Vidkun Quisling had been established at Oslo, replacing the Nygaardsvold regime which left the Norweigian capital.)

A Norweigian authority, speaking with the authority of Norweigian Minister Erik Colban, told International News Service that he believed any negotiations being carried on with Germany were conducted through the Quisling puppet regime and not the Nygaardsvold government.

Therefore, he claimed, such negotiations "carry no weight in the present situation".

No Pursuit

"After most determined action against a superior force of larger and more modern ships in the face of gunfire from the shore, the damaged Hotspur withdrew, covered by two other destroyers.

"The enemy appeared to be in no condition to attempt pursuit. One 1,600-ton German destroyer was torpedoed and believed sunk.

"Three German ships were left heavily hit and burning. Six merchant ships suspected of containing unloaded stores for the German expedition were sunk by action of British destroyers.

"On the way out, our destroyers met the German vessel Ravensfeld which was thought to be carrying reserve ammunition of the landed German forces. This vessel was blown up."

Politically, economically and militarily, Reynaud predicted, the Scandinavian invasion will eventually react infavorably on Germany.

SEE REPUBLICAN TREND IN NATION BY RECENT VOTES

as returns were tabulated in the Illinois presidential preference primary.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey was unopposed for Republican presidential preference. Political experts, however, eyed the size of Dewey's vote, which ran about half of Roosevelt's total in Cook county (Chicago) and exceeded the president's in early returns downstate.

The vote assured Roosevelt of the support of Illinois's 58 delegates to the Democratic national convention which will pick a 1940 presidential nominee. With 14 delegates he won unopposed in Nebraska yesterday, the president now has the support of 204 of the 206 delegates picked so far.

Returns from 6,239 of the 8,336 Illinois precincts gave:

For Roosevelt—894,602.

For Garner—145,211.

In 5,678 precincts, Dewey had a total vote of 542,216.

Roosevelt's name was entered in the presidential race by the Chicago Democratic organization of Mayor Edward J. Kelly and National Committeeman Patrick A. Nash, who touched off the "draft Roosevelt" campaign also supported by Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois in the midwest.

STILL THERE'S ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT

WHEN Pennsylvania's motor accident records are compared with those of other States, Pennsylvania's highway mileage, its density of population, its traffic volume, and the fact that two of its cities are among the ten largest in the country, must be taken into consideration.

On this comparative basis, State Secretary of Revenue Hamilton's conclusion that Pennsylvania is the safest large State in the Union for the motoring public is a valid one. Although it stood sixth in highway safety last year, it was surpassed by States with small or sparsely populated areas.

The important point is that highway deaths in this State have been declining, from nearly 3000 in 1937 to 1800 in 1939. With Philadelphia leading the way in a vigorous new safety crusade, this year's Statewide figures should show further savings in human life.

Effective use by Secretary Hamilton's department of the potent instrument of license revocation and suspension for reckless driving will be a powerful spur to accident prevention.

PROGRESS IN REFORESTATION

Try to imagine a forest so vast that you can easily pick it out on a small map of the United States. Imagine it stretching from Cleveland to Pittsburgh, then down to Charleston, W. Va., across to Columbus and back to Cleveland.

Try to imagine all this being planted during the past five years or so, a staggering new physical feature of our country.

It is not entirely fantasy. This Spring the million-acre mark will be passed in tree-planting on national forest lands. That's 1,500-odd square miles. And that is a square roughly 125 miles on each side. It would show up on the map something like the rough rectangle described above. Of course in reality the tracts are in different places, not all in one.

Every man, woman and child in the country is richer today, more secure in his country's future, for this planting.

THOMAS RUNS FOURTH TIME

For the fourth consecutive time Norman Thomas takes his place in a Presidential race as nominee of the Socialist Party. This time his running mate is Maynard C. Krueger, whose name is pronounced so as to make a rhyme in the song sung at the Socialist convention in Washington: "The workers are eager for Thomas and Krueger."

Thomas, who thus becomes the first actual nominee for President this year, is a man of scholarly and cultural attainments and a public speaker of outstanding ability. As a vote-getter, however, he has never rallied the support accorded the late Eugene V. Debs, many times Socialist candidate for President.

Mr. Thomas was quite right when, in his speech accepting the nomination, he cited 1940 as a year "of crisis and confusion." It is preeminently a year when soundly conservative judgment is required. Mr. Thomas' Socialist Party, however, has little to recommend it to the confidence of American voters.

SOMETHING ABOUT CHILDISH WORRIES

Worries of children in the fifth and sixth grades of school, collected in a list that ranges from fears of examination failure or of mother's working too hard, down to those of the world's coming to an end and of witches, disclose an interesting and illuminating phase of juvenile life. The list of 53 things about which pupils worry was compiled by Rudolph Pinter and Joseph Lev of Teachers College, New York.

Worry about witches was placed at the bottom of the list of troubles by both boys and girls. But in Salem days it might have been placed at the top. Easier to understand and most natural is the top worry, that of school examination failure. It probably will persist through college days. And the worry lest mother may be working too hard, which comes second on the list, is also capable of easy comprehension among those who deal with children

To pupils of the age tested, mother, perhaps more than father, is the center of the home. The boys and girls daily see the almost endless tasks of their mothers. Father's work, which takes him out of the home, makes less of an impression. Worry lest he may be laboring too hard comes Nos. 5 and 6, respectively.

Worries about getting sick, being late for school, losing fountain pens, grade from 10 to 24 on the list. Having bad dreams, mother's going away and inability to get work after leaving school are rather far down on the list. Spooky stories, worry lest the home burn and getting married are among the lesser bugbears. Fear of kidnaping is third from last.

Quite a collection of worries for small boys and girls. Needless? Yes, most of them. But can adults who do so much needless worrying themselves tell the pupils to forget theirs?

Daladier was erroneously called a dictator. A dictator isn't dissolved by parliament, he dissolves it.

Government economists say a business rise will begin in April. If it keeps pace with the thermometer, bully.

Sumner Welles announces he has no peace plan and neither has Europe. That's what everybody was afraid of.

Arkansas River at Pueblo, Colorado, is dry for the first spring in memory. This is a fine time for it to choose not to run.

The spending noise is increasing in Congress and pretty soon it will be strong enough to puncture the $45,000,000,000 ceiling.

The United States may have 200,000,000 bushels less than enough wheat this year. If this keeps up, a surplus will not be called hard names pretty soon.

Some Senators think the $1,000,000,000 farm appropriation can be made by reducing other appropriations. Now listen for the other wheels to begin squeaking loudly.

Roosevelt has "warned" newspaper reporters not to speculate on the report Sumner Welles brought back with him from Europe, intimating that only Welles and Roosevelt will ever know its contents.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

BRIDGING THE HOME-SCHOOL GAP

Although an occasional local Parent-Teacher Association will wander from its legitimate objective, I have always been enthusiastic over the purposes and possibilities of this organization. At its best the PTA interprets the home to the school and the school to the home, helping bridge the gap between the two. The good PTA devotes its major efforts to furthering more intelligent parenthood, so the school might have good materials out of which to build still better citizens.

From a city of several hundred thousand souls, the following letter came to me:

"My dear Dr. Myers—Being second vice president of the——Council, it is my job to organize new Parent-Teacher Associations. But I find my principal is opposed to having one, either fearing more work or interference in the administration of the school. Telling him of our policy doesn't seem to help, though our superintendent is very much in favor."

This paragraph would describe a good many other cities.

A good many principals who don't want a PTA organized just don't know what it is all about. They have little or no appreciation of home-school co-operation. They still think of the school as a separate institution. For them there might as well be no home except to supply "child fodder" for their school machine. It has not yet percolated their little heads that a child is a continuous personality whose emotions have their wellsprings in the home; that the child who comes to school is not merely the physical entity he seems to be, but a feeling child with heart strings tied to the home. Oh, yes, there are a few who know these things but don't believe the PTA is the proper means for promoting them.

Of course, some school administrators have had unfortunate experiences with a PTA, or know of others who have had. Most meddling groups of this type have not been PTA's at all. They just took the liberty to call themselves by that name. They are "bootleg" PTA'S, belonging neither to the state nor national body. Therefore, they easily can be led astray and violate the ideals of the real Parent-Teacher Association.

All we can do is to gain these few opponents by slow persuasion, proving to them that the PTA does work for the best interest of school and home.

Then there are school principals who regard the PTA as a kind of Santa Claus to supply school equipment—pianos, curtains, radios. But this is the function of the Board of Education, not the PTA. Usually the more the PTA spends on things at school, the less is spends on thoughts about better parent-teacher relationships, better parenthood, better children. The more it spends on things that perish, the less it spends on the imperishables. Let's help our PTA to save its soul.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

AGE OLD ADVICE.

The chilling scream of the siren—the reflection of the motorcycle cop in the car's rear-view mirror—the screeching of brakes as the car stops—then the studied sarcasm of the officer inquiring, "Say, Buddy, where do you think you're going? To a fire?" Few are the drivers who have experienced such an episode without feeling the officer's wisecracking was a more bitter pill to swallow than the penalty itself.

We are happy to report a change for the better. Courtesy is staging a comeback—so far one of the best pieces of news 1940 has produced! New York City has begun to lead the way. Every two days one hundred twenty of the twenty-five hundred men in the Traffic Division are detailed for a ten hour "refresher course" in courtesy and public relations. Speaking before one of these groups the other day, able Police Commissioner Valentine voiced the hope the day would come when the "insulting, sarcastic, wisecracking" traffic policeman would have ceased to exist. In straight-from-the-shoulder words, the able Commissioner asked—

"Why do so many members of the force when serving a summons, act as though the violation were a personal affront? The violator does not offend you, so why bawl him out? On many occasions a kind admonition will do, and may be more effective than a summons."

Commissioner Valentine's words, timely as they are, apply to more than law-enforcement officials. Courtesy is invaluable in all human relations. The "soft answer which turneth away wrath," the generous instead of the selfish word, succeed where discourtesy brings only ill-will and failure.

Age-old wisdom, yes, but it can stand repeating!

"A woman in our bridge club drives us all crazy, with her habit, especially when she is dummy, of holding the floor with one harangue after another, laughing at her own jokes and giving no one else a chance to speak. What can we do to suppress her?"

In the morning mail, I have this plea from a reader with whom I have the most profound sympathy because I have often suffered from bores of the same stripe. One that I frequently encounter not only holds the floor as greedily as a dog holds onto a bone, but embroiders each anecdote with all the senseless minutia of dialogue and description that can be crammed into each sentence. Then when one story ends there comes "and-a" repeated until her next speech is on the air.

Of course this habit can be cured when it first appears during the show-off phase of childhood. But the only cure for adults hardened in the habit is a brusque squelch and a reminder that experts on radio listener phychology have learned that the average audience tires of any one person's share of dialogue lasting more than 25 words.

Reader's Question Answered

Dear Miss Markel: I am soon to take a short sea voyage alone. Would it be permissable for me to make myself acquainted with strangers aboard ship and indulge in the sports events and the dance aboard?

Clare.

Answer: To a certain extent conventions are disregarded on shipboard. You may, with utter propriety, strike up an acquaintance with those seated at your table in the dining saloon. In fact, to sit beside them for days and ignore their presence would be far from courteous. Even though you are alone you may attend the dances and sports aboard, but I would suggest that you form a few acquaintances before these events so that you will not feel lost and embarrassed upon going into the ball room or to the tennis court unaccompanied. If you make yourself acquainted with those seated at the table with you you will, through them, make other friendships.

What's What At A Glance

Dewey Leads Republican Hopefuls
Has Made Good Showing In Primary
Democrats Believe He's Too Young

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Supporters of Thomas E. Dewey as this year's Republican presidential candidate naturally are very well pleased with the showing their choice has been making in the primaries thus far.

New Deal third termers also profess entire satisfaction with President Roosevelt's record. They say likewise that they hope Dewey WILL be nominated on the G. O. P. ticket. Their argument is that maybe he can get that far but they don't believe that, in the face of so jittery an international situation as today's, the voters will elect so young and untried an individual. Consequently, they reason that his selection by the Republican convention simply will guarantee a Democratic victory in November.

More conservative Democrats, opposed to the third term idea, express the same opinion of Dewey that the third term Rooseveltians do, though, of course, they're not so well suited with F. D.'s primary score. However, they profess to be quite certain that the present White House tenant finally will refuse to run again, whereupon they think they can beat Tom with somebody else.

John N. Garner's following is decidedly downcast, but not greatly surprised, the Garnerites having been suspecting for some time that the Texan's campaign wasn't progressing as well as it started off.

Hull's Friends Hopeful

On the theory that President Roosevelt will decline a third nomination, friends of Cordell Hull are in a cheerful mood.

Supposing that the president eliminates himself, and Garner having been eliminated in the primaries, their contention is that the Tennesseean will be their party's logical pick, both as to quality and as a first-clas compromise between Democratic liberals and conservatives.

There's little betting on James A. Farley, except perhaps vice presidentially. Burton K. Wheeler hasn't developed formidably and Paul V. McNutt appears to have frazzled out.

At least, that's the Hullites' view. And they're as confident as the New Deal third termers claim to be that any good Democrat can lick Dewey. They have to admit that the state secretary is a trifle old for the presidency, but they insist, on the opposite hand, that Tom Dewey is too darned young.

It's true, Hull hasn't figured in the primaries, but he hasn't been an aspirant for any convention delegates.

Such, in short, is Democratic political talk in Washington. It goes almost without saying that Republican politicians pooh-pooh all their rivals' predictions of an easy victory over Dewey or any other G. O. P. nominee.

Not All Pro-Dewey

Republican sentiment is not, indeed, all pro-Dewey.

In fact, I think there are fewer Deweyites in Washington than there seem to be out in the sticks. The Republicans in the capital are almost exclusively hard-boiled oldsters, to whom the New Yorker's glamor hasn't much appeal, as evidently it has to their party's miscellaneous rank-and-file.

On Capitol Hill, I'd surmise that G. O. P. statesmanship would prefer Robert A. Taft or Arthur H. Vandenberg. Nevertheless, it generally is conceded that Taft is rather humdrum for widespread popularity, and Vandenberg has been too busy in the Senate to put up a primary fight for himself.

Anyway, the Republicans' story is that they'll be united behind whatever candidate their convention puts up. They maintain that, contrari-

Words Of Wisdom

Public sentiment ought to signify the common march of good men's thoughts and should be but a road, marked plain, that all may know the way to travel.—But too often it is employed as a bride to stop free thinking, an intimidation to check free acting, a bauble to lure approbation or a threatened fool's cap with which to terrify it.

Toilet Soap

WASHINGTON, April 10

ABOUT two years ago Mrs. Roosevelt, in reply to a very mild and entirely respectful criticism, declared at one of her press conferences that she did think that she and her children might be "allowed to live our normal lives."

ALL that had been done was to point out that she and her children had capitalized their White House connection in a way unprecedented in the history of the country; that they had thrown into the discard the dignity that always had protected the Presidency from commercialization and established an entirely new set of ethics for the White House family. In brief, they were making use of the White House never considered possible before.

INASMUCH as Mrs. Roosevelt and several of her children had made themselves public characters by their literary, radio, journalistic, political and financial activities, it did not seem an invasion of their privacy to comment upon these activities. On the contrary, it seemed entirely justified by the facts. Not to comment would have been silly and self-conscious. And, of course, a complete answer to that "let us lead our normal lives" plea easily could have been made but for the desire to be polite to Mrs. Roosevelt and avoid saying bluntly the sort of thing which some of the Roosevelt family's activities seemed to invite.

SINCE that time Mrs. Roosevelt and her children have continued to lead what they call their "normal lives" with practically no public criticism at all, although underneath there has been a good deal of personal feeling. The earning power of Mrs. Roosevelt has greatly increased. Her lectures have become more numerous and better paid; her magazine articles more frequent, and her syndicated column has gained a wider, and hence more lucrative for her, circulation.

IN addition, Mrs. Roosevelt has injected herself more and more into public affairs. By her attitude toward the Dies committee, her extraordinary championship of the Communistically flavored American Youth Congress, and her frequent public comments upon foreign affairs, she has become today more of a public figure than before—more of one than all the other Presidential wives in American history combined. Two years ago the statement was made in this place that since her husband became President she had spoken and written, for pay, more words than any other woman in the country has spoken or written in anything like the same length of time—probably more than any other woman in the world's history. In brief, she had made a record.

IT was also stated that, with the exception of a few fabulous moving picture stars, she had in recent years made more money than any other woman. Since then that statement has become more indisputably true. She stands today, both as to production and compensation, in a class by herself. None of this has hurt Mrs. Roosevelt. On the contrary, her popularity has steadily grown, and all the polls show her now as better liked than her husband. Nor does it seem to have hurt her children. Even the most recent exploit of James Roosevlet in securing for his insurance firm (of which his mother is a director) the business of the Government-owned shipping line of which ex-Senator McAdoo is the head did not seem to stir the public pulse.

AND now it is announced that Mrs. Roosevelt has signed a long-time radio contract with a soap company. Twice a week she is to broadcast for a Toilet Soap Corporation. The pay for this has not been made public, but, as it is to be over a national hookup, clearly it will not be small. Mrs. Roosevelt has stated that her previous radio earnings have been given to charity. She has never made it clear whether her syndicate, magazine articles, royalties and lecture fees went the same way or not.

BUT that is not the point. The point is that, whether she gives all her earnings to charity, as some say, or only part, as others say; whether the proceeds of the new contract go to some worthy cause or into her own purse still it is not easy to relish the fact that a toilet-soap manufacturer can hire the wife of the President of the United States for a purely commercial purpose. If this is the "normal life" for the President's wife, standards inded have changed. It hardly seems as adequate reason to say, what undoubtedly is true, that she is a fine woman who does a great deal of good and whose sympathies are with the downtrodden and oppressed. Yet most of the people appear to think so, and merely to dissent from that view probably will be regarded as a dastardly attack inspired by some low motive.

Air Warfare Develops No New Secret Arms

By A. W. ROISSETTER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON.—The first few months of the war have revealed to R. A. F. experts many advantages and defects of both British and German airplanes, but no surprise weapon has been revealed by either side.

Experts believe that the British power-operated armored gun-turret still give R.A.F. bombers a tremendous advantage over their German counterparts. Thousands of these turrets are now being made for British warplanes.

The bombers have turrets in the nose, amidships and in the tail. Each can take two or four guns, which can be swung with the turret in all directions.

Consequently there are hardly any "blind spots" left on British bombers.

Super-light armor plating introduced on the bombers involves only a small sacrifice of either war load or gasoline.

Use Of Remote Control

A proposal now under consideration embodies the use of remote control enabling a gunner sitting in an armored position amidships to operate the guns mounted in any of the turrets.

The proposal has been a bone of contention for years among air officials. One school favors the idea of remote control while the other raises two objections.

One is that a bullet through the remote control turret would put all guns out of action until the gunner has made his way through half the length of the plane and manned his battery of guns in the rear turret.

The second is that unless the air gunner is directly on top of his guns in the rear turret vital seconds are lost in clearing them in the event of a stoppage or misfire.

With batteries firing at the rate of 9,600 rounds a minute, the objectors state that every split second counts.

LONDON. — The heroism of a young officer in the British navy revealed the secrets of Germany's deadly magnetic mine, and made it possible for successful measures to be worked out to combat the sea menace, it has been officially disclosed.

At the risk of instant death, Lieut. Commander J. G. D. Ouvry, of the Mine station at Portsmouth, volunteered to dismantle the first magnetic mine which fell into British hands.

Nothing was known about the mechanism of this lethal, pear-shaped aluminum "secret weapon" which was taking deadly toll of scores of British and neutral ships in the waters of the English channel and Thames estuary. One false move by the courageous young officer and he would be blown to bits by the explosion of 700 pounds of T. N. T.

One Officer Blown To Bits

A short time before the magnetic mine was discovered in tide water off the East coast a chief petty officer had been blown to pieces trying to render another German mine harmless.

Ouvry volunteered for the hazardous work, knowing that if he was successful in solving the secret of the new horror weapon it would mean the saving of hundreds of ships and perhaps thousands of lives.

He was successful, and for his bravery today wears the D. S. O.

The dramatic story of Ouvry's daring dates back to November when the destruction of shipping by Hitler's new secret weapon was at its height.

On the night of November 22, artillerymen on the shore at Shoeburyness saw a Nazi seaplane swoop low over the coast. As searchlights and anti-aircraft batteries went into action they saw two parachutes flutter from the belly of the plane and flutter slowly down to the water. They struck the surface near the shore and disappeared. The Admiralty was immediately notified. Experts from mine stations at Pourtsmouth were hurried to the scene.

Then the deadly hazardous task began. Commander Ouvry volunteered to tackle the opening of the mine alone.

Advise To Crew

"I'll start on this fitting," he shouted to his crew on the shore. "If it blows up, don't touch it on the next mine you dismantle."

As each successive fitting was unscrewed, he shouted out its location before applying the wrench.

Finally, what appeared to be the detonator was carefully removed.

Then the whole party set to work on the other fittings. Suddenly they were shocked into a stunned silence. Another fitting had proved to be a second detonator when it was removed.

But the work went on until all fittings were safely removed. The delicate actuating mechanism was taken out with a sigh of relief, and only the hull with its 700 pounds of explosive remained.

The actuating mechanism, it was revealed, is a magnetic needle inside the mine which is held in a horizontal position by springs, regardless of the position of the mine on the sea bottom.

The steel hull of a ship passing directly over or near the mine attracts one end of the needle upwards the other end dipping until it makes an electrical contact, completing the circuit which detonates the mine.

wise, the Democrats are split wide open, as they insist that the primaries have revealed.

Their forecast is that, on election day, a lot of conservative Democrats will stay home or even vote the G. O. P. ticket if their party names a New Dealer and that a lot of New Dealers will do the same thing if the Democratic standard bearer is a conservative. And they (the Republican dopesters) are confident, that no suitable Democratic compromise candidate can be found—not even Cordell Hull.

John L. Lewis

As might be guessed, the Republicans are praying that John L. Lewis makes good his threat of putting a third ticket into the field.

John L. already has proclaimed that he doesn't expect anything satisfactory from the Republicans. So his prospective third ticket won't draw any votes from the G. O. P.'s ranks, anyway.

It's only in case the Democrats don't suit him, either, that he'll undertake to go it alone. And THAT will mean that whatever votes he does get will be otherwise Democratic votes. They'll just be subtracted from the Democratic total, because there won't be any of his kind of G. O. P. votes to subtract from. He's said so in advance.

pared to ask in time for help. They often ask for it when it is too late to render it effectively.

Defenseless Attacked

"The fact that the more defenseless of Germany's neighbors have been chosen for this aggression is quite in keeping with the conventional behavior of a bully who prefers to choose as subjects of attack those not sufficiently powerful to defend themselves.

Recalling the non-aggression pact signed between Norway and Germany and the fact that Norway had always been "accommodating" to the reich, Halifax said:

"It is therefore clear that neither non-aggression pacts or the absence of provocation are the least avail against German policy if it demands otherwise.

"I find it difficult to believe that even Goebbels (German Propaganda Minister Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels) can suppose that world opinion will recognize as reasonable reprisals against allied mine-laying a German action of which the immediate objects were destruction of two other countries' independence.

"The truth is," he continued, "that nobody who is not in a position to defend itself is safe.

"The behavior of Germany is really like that of a homicidal lunatic or a mad dog which runs about biting wherever it may be.

"If anything was required to stiffen Anglo-French resolution, these events have supplied it. Plainly this war is not merely a struggle between belligerents nor will the issue affect them alone. It is more and more plain that on this issue of war hangs the fate not only of those at war but of all liberty-loving peoples."

In what was regarded as a sop to Italy, Halifax said:

"We are accused of wanting to defeat Germany because Germany is totalitarian. But it is no business of ours what government other countries have. Our purpose has repeatedly been made plain. It is to restore liberty to peoples cruelly robbed by Germany and to free Europe of the menace of Nazi domination under which it today lies."

As regards Soviet Russia, the foreign secretary said:

"There are those who wish us to declare war on the U. S. S. R., and those who would have us seek rapprochment with the U. S. S. R.

"But we do not consider this question only against the background of the Soviet Union's wanton attacks on Poland and Finland, but in the light of that which must remain our principal objective—the defeat of Germany.

It follows that in the future our relations with Russia must depend and ought to depend more than aything else upon the degree of effective help which Russia may for whatever reason give to Germany."

NAZIS AND ALLIES LOCKED IN DEATH STRUGGLE, BELIEF

cruiser Bluecher and the 6,000-ton light cruiser Karlsruhe had been sunk, the Bluecher by a mine and the Karlsruhe by Norwegian shore batteries.

But in addition, according to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, the Germans had lost a 1,600-ton destroyer, suffered the loss—so far as action was concerned—of three other ships, and counted the destruction of seven merchant vessels. The latter craft were blown out of the water by a British destroyer on suspicion they were carrying ammunition or provisions to the Nazi land troops in Norway.

Partial Victory Claims

Similar partial-victory claims came from French Premier Paul Reynaud. Half the German fleet is now exposed to the allied attack, he said, and he promised that the port of Narvik will be so blockaded that "not a single ton" of Swedish iron ore will reach Germany by that route. Premier Reynaud insisted that all German vessels which had engaged in the occupation of Narvik are now "bottled up" in the Norwegian port. Norway stiffened its resistance on water as well as land. A German steamer was sunk by a Norwegian torpedo boat at Stavanger. In turn, the small Norwegian craft keeled over and sunk under the onslaught of German bombing planes.

Infantry In Battle

Stockholm, April 10—As German infantry, supported by war planes, were reported engaged in battle near Elverum, in South Norway, word reached Stockholm tonight of a bitter naval engagement between German and Norwegian warships at Stavanger. Several were killed and at least two ships—A German steamer and a Norwegian torpedo boat—were sunk.

Other clashes between German and Norwegian troops apparently occurred near Hamar, Southern Norwegian town evacuated this morning by the Norwegian government which fled Oslo yesterday.

Before Stavanger was occupied the Norwegian torpedo boat Aeger sank a German steamer in the Harbor, it was revealed tonight. Then German bombing planes swarmed in and with high caliber bombs sent the 597-ton torpedo boat to the bottom, killing at least four men of the 72-man crew. Several Germans also were reported to have been killed.

Oslo banks closed all day yesterday, were opened for business today after it was determined there was no apparent danger of further air raids.

The influential Oslo newspaper Afterposten this evening published a proclamation by the "puppet" government which was proclaimed yesterday by Major Quisling Norwegian Nazi leader. The newspaper made no comment but under a photograph of the major stated:

"A situation has arisen whereby allied infringement upon our neutrality has caused Germany to declare she is taking over the protection of our integrity.

nouncement said a British submarine, torpedoed another German cruiser off southern Norway during the night, and that this vessel also was believed to have sunk.

British air bombing attacks against two more German cruisers at Bergen, in which hits were said to have been scored, also were announced by the admiralty.

Meanwhile, British authorities said it can be stated specifically that the Germans have not taken the Faroe Islands, Greenland or Iceland and that the British government "has every intention of seeing that Germany does not take them."

A government spokesman declined to elaborate, however, upon whether Britain intends to land forces in those areas or concentrate naval units around them.

Minimize Report

Naval circles sought to minimize the depressing effect of the announcement regarding the Hunter and Hardy, asserting that while their fate was "unfortunate" it was of no material consequence to Britain, which has more than 150 destroyers.

In any event, they contended, the British loss is more than balanced by the probable loss or damage to at least three German cruisers.

These quarters said that destroyers carrying 4.7-inch guns are considered fully worthy of engaging cruisers in such an area as Narvik, where there was a possibility of outclassing the German vessels in numbers and maneuverability.

Naval authorities insisted that the full story of the naval situation off the Norwegian coast still remains to be told, and that the Narvik engagement was "only an incident."

The announcement was the first concrete news received in Britain regarding the major naval battle which raged off the western coast of Norway.

Planes Raid Base

In one of these raids, aviation circles stated, British planes last night raided German warships off Bergen, scoring a direct hit with a heavy bomb on one cruiser and, it was believed, damaging other warships. The assault was described as follows:

"Bomber command aircraft attacked in relays in quick succession. The attack was delivered by a strong force of long-range bombers in the face of intense anti-aircraft fire from the warships.

"The aircraft flew in sections and in a line astern of the principal targets which were two large cruisers and two destroyers anchored in the Bergen roadsted.

"In the failing light accurate observation of the results was difficult, but one heavy bomb was seen to register a direct hit on the after part of a large cruiser of the Koeln class.

"Despite intense fire all the aircraft returned safely in the night, landing safely at their bases after a flight of eight hours."

Pennsylvania Claims Best Pre-Marital Law

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG.—What is termed "the most nearly perfect premarital law now existing in the United States" will be inaugurated in Pennsylvania soon.

Beginning May 17, every applicant for a marriage license—man and woman—must submit to a physical examination and present a physician's statement that he or she is free from contagious syphilis.

State health authorities explained that under the law no marriage license clerk would be able to issue a marrige permit unless the applicant's first presented physicians' certificates terming them free from a contagious form of syphilis.

Free examinations will be provided needy persons at state health department laboratories. Applicants denied a permit may appeal to the health department for a review. Before the law goes into effect private and hospital laboratories will be checked by the state to determine whether they meet the standards necessary to perform the serologic blood tests correctly.

A companion law requiring blood tests of pregnant women goes into effect on June 24. This act requires physicians attending pregnant women to make serological blood tests providing the patient raises no objections.

A spring rush at marriage license bureaus throught Pennsylvania was looked for by state health officials from those seeking to avoid the provisions of the new law. A decrease in business was expected for a time after the new law goes into effect.

The physicians' examination must be made within 30 days of the license insurrance date, although the license itself is good for 60 days.

Forms are now going out to the 14,000 practicing physicians in Pennsylvania. Dr. Edgar S. Everhart, chief of the Health Department Division of Syphilis and Genitoinfectious Diseases, said arrangements for providing local clinical facilities has been virtually completed.

Dr. John J. Shaw, state secretary of health, termed the new law "a step in the right direction."

"It is only a question of time," he added, "until every state in the union has such a law." A perusal of similar laws enacted by other states had convinced him, said Dr. Shaw, the Pennsylvania has "avoided their unsatisfactory points and profited by thir good ones, making Pennsylvania's law the most nearly perfect premarital law now existing in the United States."

Similar laws are in effect now in New York, New Jersey, West Virginia, Kentucky, Illinois, Oregon, New Hampshire, Michigan, Ohio and Vermont.

Essayist Suggests New Industry Here

Robert Bailey, Third Prize Winner Of Senior High Class In Pioneer Week

In his third prize winning essay on Pioneer Week subjects, Robert Bailey of 911 Rose avenue, a senior high school student, makes some suggestions concerning a nylon plant for New Castle. Here is his essay:

Present-Day Pioneering In New Castle

Research work by Du Pont chemists has made a discovery that may have far reaching consequences. This new product is called Nylon. Nylon may revolutionize the textile industry. If this is true, new factories will be needed.

Du Pont already has built two mills at a cost of 11 million dollars; one in West Virginia which partially processes the raw material; the other in Delaware which produces the finished Nylon through a process known only to the Du Pont company. The eight hundred men that the mills employ can put out four million six hundred thousand pounds of Nylon annually. The main item made from Nylon is hosiery which is more elastic and stronger than any cloth known to man. Other manufactures are parachutes, which are lighter and stronger when made from Nylon, lace, knit-goods, such as women's underwear, woven dress goods, lining for men's suits, and possibly even rugs and carpets, in other words anything requiring strength and elasticity. A proof of its strength is that it can be used as an enamel so firm that copper wires coated with it will break before the coating so much as cracks. The process for making Nylon is unknown but it is known that the elements of silk are the same as those of Nylon and the molecules are arranged in somewhat the same way. These elements are carbon, hydrogen, and oxygen, which are also the chemical elements of coal, air, and water.

Since Nylon has the elements of coal, air, water, it must be made from these materials. If this is so then New Castle has everything needed for a plant here. Du Pont is glad that this discovery will supply jobs for all America. Where in the United States are jobs more needed than in New Castle? There are enough men and more to work in any new factory here. There are many good locations in New Castle, some along rivers, and the taxes on the ground should be very low as an inducement.

In conversing with some men in the trucking business, I found that any point in New Castle can be served by railroad facilities and modern trucking transportation. In this way coal could be brought to the plant. There would be no doubt that any industry could be well supplied by electricity because of the new power plant in West Pittsburg.

Looking at the three questions which would be asked concerning local coal, they would be: (1) the amount of coal; (2) the grade of coal; (3) the labor conditions of our mines.

As to the question referred to first, we find that there is an unlimited supply of coal in this locality which would adequately furnish any industrial plant. From five hundred to two thousand tons a day are produced by mines comparatively near New Castle. At least 60 per cent of the coal mined here is shipped out.

Then the second question, we find that coal can be obtained in this vicinity that is of a very good grade—low in moisture, sulphur, and ash; high in B. T. U.'s (British Thermal Units, indicating value of heat pressure in a pound of coal); and very good fusion temperature. The analysis of Lawrence county coal shows it to be very favorable in comparison to high-priced, shipped-in coal. Proof of this is that many industries in New Castle use local coal.

From the water standpoint, the Neshannock and Shenango rivers, controlled by the Pymatunning Dam, and later joined by the Mahoning, would make New Castle an ideal location for industries. Of the three rivers of New Castle, the Neshannock is the only one that does not require filteration and treatment for industries requiring pure water in their operations. It is clear and suitable for a textile industry. The lowest record of flow is 17 million gallons daily. It is free of objectionable waste of industries which would make it impure because there are no such industries on this river above New Castle.

The last raw material that Du Pont would need would be air. This, although God gave it to New Castle, we would gladly donate to them, free of charge, exempt from tax, only on one condition — that Du Pont put the next Nylon factory in New Castle.

Poor Lucinda Hold was allergic to cold.

Many individuals have a high sensitivity to cold.

A physician reports two recent cases of "cold allergy."

One, a housewife suffered when kneading bread with cold milk.

Cold water and even cold air caused her extreme pain.

Her fingers and hands swelled so the hand could not be closed.

The pain disappeared shortly, the swelling lasted some time.

Another patient suffered symptoms for seven years.

Both patients were relieved by adequate drug treatment.

"Cold allergy," like other allergies, is inherited.

Those who sunburn painfully are known as "heliophobes."

Victims of "cold allergy" might well be termed "frigorophobes."

Lawrence Denies Macing Charges

Trial Of Democratic Leaders At Harrisburg Is Nearing Close Today

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 10.—The trial of eight Democratic officials accused of macing state employes during the Earle administration neared its close as the defense prepared to rest today following a cross-examination by the prosecution of Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence.

Lawrence, the last of the eight defendants to take the stand in his own behalf, testified last night at the first of two evening sessions ordered by Judge Howard W. Hughes to hasten proceedings. The second will be held tonight and the case is expected to go to the jury Friday. Tomorrow marks a year since Judge Hughes was first assigned to the graft cases by the state supreme court.

After the defense rests, the commonwealth was prepared to present several rebuttal witnesses Four defense attorneys and District Attorney Carl B. Shelley are expected to address the 12 Republican jurors in final summations before the court charges them and they retire to deliberate.

A flat denial that any state employe was ever forced to contribute to the Democratic party was made by Lawrence, a former secretary of the commonwealth under Gov. George H. Earle, when he took the stand.

TETANUS

The development of the antitetanus serum a quarter of a century ago was a great thing for mankind, and particularly so for the people in the country where lock jaw was always more common.

The bacteria causing the disease, which enters the body through a scratch and goes to the brain where it begins its work of destruction almost immediately, is particularly common in the manure from horse stables, so many a barefoot farm lad had died of the disease. Of course, they still develop the disease, but the serum that has been developed is sufficient to arrest it provided it is given before the disease has worked too great a havoc with the brain and the nervous system.

In the early days of the First World War, thousands of soldiers who were wounded in Flanders died of tetanus. It was found that the rich land there, frequently fertilized with manure as it is, was a hot bed for the bacilli that causes tetanus. From the time the serum was discovered, all soldiers were treated with it as soon after they were wounded as possible. The result was that the disease became rare during last years of the war.

With this convincing demonstration before us, in peace time we doctors used it every time we found a wound or an injury where it seemed possible that the tetanus bacteria might have had a chance to enter the system. Consequently in the cases of most serious injuries, the disease has been prevented. It has been mostly through scratches or apparently small, unimportant cuts not attended by a physician that the disease has carried on.

I have found that it is in children the disease finds its easiest victims. They are the ones who suffer the most scratches and cuts, and they are more likely to be playing or tumbling about the yard when these occur. Of course, parents can't call a doctor every time a child scratches himself. If they did, the doctor would be calling almost every day at most homes. However, if the injury is at all bad, or if there is any reason to expect that the child may have been exposed to the infection when the injury occurred, it might be wise to have the doctor over and let him give the child a shot of serum.

This serum will prevent the disease if given before it appears. Or if it is given early enough, right when the first symptoms appear, the child's chances for recovery are good. Fatalities from the disease today occur when people dally too long about sending for the doctor, for if it has a good enough start, even the serum won't save the life of the child.

I have written about this disease in this and former articles because I believe if parents become aware of the symptoms and the cause of the disease, deaths from it can be wiped out almost completely. All that is necessary is to educate parents to take advantage of the preventive means at their disposal.

Rigid Tests For Materials Used In License Tags

Materials Used In Construction Must Pass Several Inspections

HARRISBURG—Materials that go into the making of Pennsylvania's automobile license tags are now required to pass stringent tests before they are given final approval by the state.

The tags must stand up under all sorts of weather conditions and accordingly call for strict supervision, not only as to their manufacture but as to the quality of the steel, paint and varnish that go into their makeup.

The paint test is now one of the most rigid tests conducted by the State in preparing for manufacture of the tags. Competing vendors, once they have submitted their examples for testing do not know their own products as the tests proceed as samples are identified only by a code number.

The preliminary tests are held at the Western State Penitentiary, Pittsburgh, where the tags are made. A more detailed chemical analysis test is conducted by the State Highways laboratory at Harrisburg.

The preliminary tests are conducted by representatives of the State Bureau of Standards, the Highway Testing laboratory, the Department of Revenue, and the Prison Labor Division of the Department of Welfare.

Some Of Census Figures Likely In Three Weeks

First "unofficial" census totals for New Castle and Lawrence, Beaver and Butler counties should be ready for public announcement "within three weeks," it was announced this morning by William P. Hawkes, assistant manager of the Erie area office who conferred with district office heads today.

"Those totals will be of the population alone," Hawkes said. "Agriculture and housing totals will not be released by district headquarters".

Census-taking is progressing "very well" throughout the 17 counties—four districts—which Hawkes' Erie headquarters supervises, he reported. At Erie the work in the wide territory is under the direction of Hawkes and his chief, Henry Meyer, area manager. Hawkes devotes most of his time to field visitations, keeping his eyes and ears on the job being done.

President To Proclaim Neutrality In New War Zone

Neutrality Act Will Be Invoked

American Ships Will Be Barred From Extended War Zone, Is Belief

WILL EVACUATE MANY AMERICANS

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 10.—A proclamation by President Roosevelt extending the provisions of the Neutrality Act to the new war zone in Northern Europe was awaited in Washington today.

Issuance of the proclamation, expected within a few hours by most official quarters, may be accompanied by a statement of America's attitude on the legalistic questions raised by Adolf Hitler's latest exploits—conquest of Denmark and invasion of Norway.

Working far into the night, Mr. Roosevelt pored over reports from Europe and drafts of American policy with secretary of state Hull and undersecretary Sumner Welles at the White House. The two diplomatic chiefs, accompanied by assistant secretary of war Louis Johnson, met the President when he arrived from Hyde Park last evening.

After conferring briefly with the three in his private railroad car, the President took the two state department officials with him to the White House.

Major Problems

The two major problems to be dealt with by the administration are:

1. Safeguarding of American shipping from possible attack in the waters off Norway, now the scene of the greatest naval fight of the war. This probably will be dealt with by extending the so-called "belligerent zone," from which U. S. ships are barred, to include an area far north of the present zone around the British Isles.

2. Assuring the safety of some 1,600 United States citizens now living in Denmark and Norway.

Little concern is felt here for the 552 Americans in Denmark, as no actual fighting is going on in that country. But the position of the 1,067 citizens in Norway is considered more dangerous. Although little active fighting was reported today between German and Norwegian troops. Norway may become a major battlefield if—as reported—Great Britain is sending a military expedition there in an attempt to drive German troops out.

Under existing military conditions, it is believed that Americans can leave either of the two invaded countries through Germany or through Sweden. Should battle conditions isolate any of them, it might become necessary to send a U. S. vessel under an arranged guarantee of safety to some Scandinavian port to evacuate the refugees, as the United States did during the Spanish civil war. Officials said that so far, however, the sending of such a ship was not considered necessary.

Would Select Judges On Non-Partisan Ballot

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG April 10—Election of judges of Pennsylvania courts by non-partisan ballot was proposed Tuesday by the committee on judicial council of the Pennsylvania bar association.

The proposals for election of judges on a non-partisan basis will be contained in a report which the committee will submit to the association at its annual meeting in Bedford Springs, June 19.

"Suitable legislation should be adopted in Pennsylvania to free the courts as much as possible from political influence," read the report urging amendment of the election code of 1937.

Legislation to this end has been drafted with the help of Judge James H. Gray, State Sen. James A. Geltz, Russell G. Connolly and the legislative reference bureau, according to the committee announcement.

Many sections of the proposed act were described as "identical with sections of the election code except for minor mechanical differences in phraseology made necessary in the process of moulding the two acts into one piece of legislation."

The committee stated:

"In recent years public minded citizens have become more and more conscious of the need of protecting occupants of judicial offices from political influence. Many and various plans have been enacted into law in this growing movement to secure non-partisan courts."

It noted the proposals of the committee making a study for the American bar association but held that these could not be enacted in this state under the constitution and pointed out that the proposed act "has been planned as an amendment to the state election code of 1937."

Certain features of the non-partisan judiciary act, passed in 1913 but later repealed, were recommended.

Open Trade School, Is Plea Of Parents

Superintendent of Schools C. C. Green reports that more than 300 letters urging the re-opening of the Benjamin Franklin Trade school in the fall of 1940 have reached his office from New Castle parents.

"They come," he said, "from many, many mothers—and some fathers."

Dr. Green in appearances before civic clubs, is acquainting citizens with current proposals receiving board of education attention. Prime concern and study, he said, is being given to vocational industrial education in the Senior high school and industrial arts in the junior highs.

The schools' administrative head, speaking to Kiwanians and Rotarians, employed his comprehensive board recommendations of last December as a basis for the informative address.

President Calls Economic Advisers

Conference On New War Crisis Is Held At White House During Morning

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 10.—President Roosevelt called in his economic advisers today to deal with Europe's new war crisis while the State department drafted a proclamation to extend provisions of the U. S. neutrality act to Scandinavian waters.

A proposed decree ordering evacuation of the estimated 3,350 Americans in Norway, Denmark and Sweden also was being drawn up by the State department experts, according to the White House.

Stephen T. Early, Secretary to the president, revealed that Mr. Roosevelt had scheduled a conference with Federal Loan Administrator Jesse Jones and Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles. The fact that the president was seeing Jones and Welles at the same time was regarded as significant, since the export-import bank recently extended a total of $21,000,000 in credits to Norway, Denmark and Iceland.

Invocation of the neutrality act might automatically nullify the credits, according to legal experts. For that reason, it was believed, the president wanted to explore the economic and legal situation before the State department issues the neutrality proclamation.

TRIO PRESENTS FINE RECITAL AT WESTMINSTER

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, April 10.—When Westminster college students like an artist they display their enthusiasm in tangible fashion and Tuesday night was a night they had a chance to do so. Three talented young people, Dorothy Baker, soprano; John Rockwood, baritone, and Hans Heidemann, pianist, presented a recital in the college chapel, and the reception they received was enough criterion of their ability.

Miss Baker is a singer whose personality would make even a poor voice sound good. In her case the voice is a golden thing, vibrant, colorful and melodic. John Rockwood, baritone, is a singer whose range spreads over into the field of the tenor and the basso. He too is a personable chap, and apparently not a Scotchman, judging from the number of encores he gave. Both the artists were aided materially by the ability of Hans Heidemann at the piano. He also played two solo numbers.

BLACK-OUTS IN EUROPE MAY AID IN U. S. SAFETY

(International News Service)

NEW YORK—The United States is learning much from wartime blackouts in Europe and the knowledge may aid in lowering night accident fatalities here, the Greater New York Safety Council declared.

The use of luminous paint and garments has done much to lower Britain's fatalities during blackouts, the council pointed out. In September, 1939, the first month of the present World War, 1,130 persons lost their lives at night in Great Britain as against 614 in August, 1939.

Even with the assistance of such lighting as has been applied to many highways in this country, two-thirds of all traffic fatalities occur in hours of darkness. This has taken place despite the fact night traffic volume is only one-third of daytime travel.

The reflected light and light condensing materials being used to fight the blackouts are being studied here to further the cause of accident prevention, the council said.

Chief Of Police Election Delayed Until May Meeting

Former Plan Asking For Court Interpretation Of Boro Code Is Dropped

ELLWOOD CITY, April 10.—The election of a chief of police for Ellwood City has been postponed until the stated May Boro Council meeting on Thursday, the 9th, according to a statement made today by A. J. Howell, Fourth ward councilman.

When the Council was deadlocked last week at the April meeting with a tie vote for present chief, W. C. Morrison, and night lieutenant, E. R. Hartman, rather than have the burgess cast the deciding ballot, it was agreed to ask the county court for an interpretation of the boro code. Mr. Howell said that no action would be taken until the next meeting and if a tie occurs at that time, the burgess will be asked to decide the issue.

Monday, April 3, marks the date of the next meeting.

Red Cross Board Meets At Ellwood

Ellwood City Members Are Hosts To Board At Monthly Meeting Last Evening

DINNER SERVED IN U. P. CHURCH

Members of the executive committee of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, had their monthly meeting in the United Presbyterian church at Ellwood City last evening, with Mrs. L. E. Springer, branch chairman of Ellwood City; and Mrs. Allan M. Crowe, Junior Red Cross chairman, as hostesses.

A splendid dinner was served by the Ellwood City women, aided by their husbands, which was provided on a cost basis. The tables were arranged in the form of a cross, and were tastefully decorated in red and white.

Chairman Ralph F. Davis presided over the business session, which followed.

Miss Peggy Adams, of Circle School, of Ellwood City, reviewed the accomplishments of the Junior Red Cross of Ellwood City, which showed a great amount of work is being accomplished on various Junior Red Cross projects, glasses being furnished a number of needy children, and viosterol for undernourished children, in addition to other work.

Chairman Harry Culliford gave a report on First Aid, showing that eight courses are being conducted, with several hundred enrolled, in addition to several others which have been completed. In the past two years, close to 2,000 people have received first aid training, it was revealed.

Veterans Claim work has been introduced as a new feature of the Ellwood City branch, and last month, three burial claims were filed for $100 each, 1 pension increase was secured for $15; a compensation claim for $7.50 per month, and a widow's pension for $30 monthly, in addition to assistance with hospitalization and other work.

In the local chapter, the report of Rabbi Norman F. Diamond, Home Service Chairman, revealed six burial allowances handled and granted; one compensation case for $7.50 monthly; three pension claims, totalling $85 per month, one insurance claim, two dependents claims, resulting in the procurement of $161.25 in monthly claims, with back compensation totalling $857.67, making a total yearly sum of $1,935 brought to veterans families.

The Chapter has a case load of 334 active cases at the present time, of which 129 received service during the month. Eighteen new cases were opened during the month.

The coming national convention at Washington, D. C., which will take place May 6-8, was discussed. Arrangements are being made to send a large delegation from the local chapter to Washington, particularly for the annual dinner on the night of May 7 in the Mayflower Hotel. Indications at present point to around 15 members of the Chapter Board making the trip.

On arriving in Ellwood City last evening, the auto caravan carrying the local group, was escorted to its destination by Chief of Police William C. Morrison and Lieut. Ernest R. Hartman.

Historic Message Found In Building Being Torn Down

While John Frazier, contractor, was in the act of tearing town the old Phillips home, used for a number of years as a Nurses Home for the New Castle Hospital, he found a telegram behind one of the mantels, that has a bit of historic interest.

The telegram, a "Western Union", is on old style white paper, and the message, which dealt with the condition of the late President James A. Garfield, who was shot on July 2, 1881, by a disappointed office seeker, was penned by hand, in ink and read as follows:

East Mansion,
Washington, D. C.
July 7, 1881.

10:26 A. M.
To-T. W. Phillips,
New Castle, Penna.

The decided improvement in the President's condition this morning shows that the operation yesterday was not only successful, but exactly what was needed. All feel the old strong hopes.

Signed,
O. L. JUDD.

Mercer County Girl Takes Long Hike Over Nation

MERCER, Pa., April 10.—Because she had quarreled with her "boy friend," Margaret Louise Balla, 19, and blond, a daughter of Mrs. Sam Sonoff, near Pulaski, started to see the United States with $12 in her purse, authorities here report. She left the Sunday before Easter, and between hitch-hiking, and paying bus fare she landed in Miami, Fla., where she remained for a week.

She decided she would like to see the "big city" and started for New York. By riding on trucks she arrived in Philadelphia, and from there rode trucks to New York. Her funds running low, like the prodigal of old, she decided to return to the home fireside.

In the meantime, a state police investigation had ben started and when she arrived at Wyoming, Pa., she was picked up by the state police and was held for the Mercer county authorities. When County Detective A. G. Barnes started home with her, she still had 71 cents. She is being detained in the Mercer county jail until her case is investigated.

BLONDES STILL PREFERRED

(International News Service)

PORTLAND, Ore. — Mechanical machines also prefer blondes. The basic element of the hygrothermograph in the local office of the United States forestry department is made up of 50 blonde human hairs. The machine determines the relative humidity in fire control work. Blonde hairs are used instead of dark because the light shade is more sensitive and stronger.

Billy Rose May Buy Yankee Team

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, April 10—Billy Rose, the diminutive theatrical impresario, has made inquiry concerning the possibility of purchasing the world-champion New York Yankees, the Journal and American reported today.

Rose declined comment, the Journal and American stated, but it was learned that he commissioned his attorney to write to George E. Ruppert, one of the trustees of the club, to inquire if it was for sale and under what terms.

Estimates are that it would take about $7,500,000 to buy the Yanks. Among rumored purchasers have been Postmaster General James A. Farley, former Governor James Cox, of Ohio, and Gov. Francis P. Murphy of New Hampshire.

Hubbell, Van Mungo And Dean Eagerly Look Forward To Coming Year

SORE ARMS HAS BEEN BUGABOO

By LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 10.—Dizzy Dean, of the Chicago Cubs, Carl Hubbell, of the New York Giants, and Van Lingle Mungo of the Brooklyn Dodgers, probably are washed up beyond further repair, but any one of the trio of pitching standouts might hurl his club to the National League pennant if he could regain some of the form he used to have. The race is going to be that tough, starting next Tuesday. And it's not impossible that one or two of them will make some kind of a comeback, recent dispatches from the exhibition baseball front reveal.

Following his most recent performance, five innings against the St. Louis Browns, Dean was elated over having allowed only two hits, although he no longer has even the shadow of that fast ball he used to buzz in there. Moreover, the Browns may not be a thorough test.

Hubbell Starter

As for Hubbell, he definitely has been assigned a place on the Giants' starting staff by Manager Bill Terry, who hopes to see him win close to 20 games after last year's setback when he joined Dean as another great suddenly cut down with a lame arm.

Van Lingle Mungo probably is the least hopeful of the three, inasmuch as he currently is at Johns Hopkins, Baltimore, to undergo observations for his ailing wing.

All three of these gents combined won only 21 games last season—Dean 6, Hubbell, 11, and Mungo 4—or approximately the total one of them could grab in a good year.

It seems likely that Hubbell will make the best comeback, if his spliced up arm doesn't come apart. Most of his trouble may have been removed by surgery.

Dean's wing seems to be pretty well shot, just simply worn out. Mungo's speaks for itself. It has him back in the hospital.

Thirty-Four Out For Track Team At Slippery Rock

(Special To The News)

SLIPPERY ROCK, April 10.—When Dr. A. P. Vincent, coach of track at Slippery Rock State Teachers College, posted notices announcing the initial try-outs for the 1940 Green and White track and field team thirty-four men answered the call. For the past two weeks the Slippery Rock speedsters have been going their regular paces under the tutelage of the veteran Rocket mentor. Only three lettermen have graduated thus leaving nearly intact last year's team, which only lost one meet (Waynesburg.)

John Kaufman, Evans City, star halfback on last year's Rocket undefeated football team, will form one of the main cogs in the Rocket track team. He holds records in the 220, 440, and the broad jump. Other lettermen include: Bob Ramsey, Altoona; Frank Rogers, Irwin; John Chellman, Pittsburgh; all distance runners. Charles Hough, Latrobe, and Al Denbow, Evans City, are the returning high-jumpers. Bill McKee and Gene Shelar round out the roster of veteran thin-clads.

The schedule for 1940: April 27, Penn at home; May 1, Lock Haven, away; May 4, Westminster at home; May 8, Waynesburg at home; May 18, District Intercollegiates, Reeves Stadium, Beaver Falls, Pa.

Kittanning Bowler Is Among Leaders In A. B. C. Matches

(International News Service)

DETROIT, April 10.—First of 80 teams of hard-bitten regulars out to post the first 3,000 series, the Detroit Frankenmuths take the American Bowling Congress championship tourney alleys tonight determined to better their 1939 score of 2,957.

The alley surfaces were still withstanding the terrific pounding of more than 30 days constant rolling and show little wear, which the star bowlers like to wait for. Improved methods of caring for the alley surfaces are changing the veterans' ideas about wanting to shoot late in tournaments.

Two more 700's turned in yesterday in the solo section attest to the faster bowling in the minor events. Detroiter Steve Kukla, bowling a borrowed ball in borrowed shoes rolled a 704 to tie for fifth place.

Mike Ulisky, Kittaning, Pa., accounted for seventh place with 700 and Gordon MacPhail, Adrian, Mich., took ninth with 691.

Over 350 Present At Meeting Tuesday Night At V. F. W. Hall

ASK FOR RESPECT OF FISHING LAWS

Over 350 attended the meeting last night of the Lawrence County Sportsmen held in the V. F. W. Hall on East Washington street. George Sillman, president of the association conducted the meeting.

Many important topics were up for discussion. The club will sponsor a movement to ask the Fish Commission to stock the Slippery Rock Creek with brown trout and the Lehigh Quarry with carp. It was also planned to buy bass for the Neshannock creek but the other clubs will be asked to go along with this project.

The recent fine banquet was again discussed and the chairmen of the various committees gave their reports. The president discharged all committees and thanked them for their fine work.

Respect Fish Laws

Sillman asked that the fishermen try to respect the fish laws and also respect the farmers property during the coming fishing season. He also warned those starting fires along the creeks to keep them under control at all times. At Wampum the refuge lost over 2,000 small pine trees due to the carelessness of someone.

Elefant, of the Tifereth Israel Synagogue and Rabbi Hershel Stollman of Ellwood city, L. F. Kohn, and J. E. Raffel. LABOR SHORTAGE SHIP SAILINGS

(International News Service)

CRISTOBAL, Canal Zone.—Due to a shortage in labor and an unusually heavy amount of freight, passenger and freight ships are being delayed in sailing from this Atlantic port of Panama and the Canal Zone. Approximately 1,000 dockhands were available for loading in recent weeks while normally the help of more than 5,000 men is required. Ships have been delayed for as long as 48 hours in sailing.

A. L. Prather, Cristobal Agent, explained the labor shortage in the fact that West Indian dockhands received so much overtime in recent weeks and subsequently such unexpected increased paychecks that they have decided to go on a holiday spree until their pockets are empty again.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEALL

Fog over London was the thought of many as they stepped from their front door this morning . . . but thank goodness we are not in London and the only noise that was heard was the cherping of the spring birds . . . good old U. S. A. . . . each day we are more glad and happy that we live over here instead of over on the other side.

Here's a little story that has been the favorite of many a newspaper manager . . . and being a human and in this sort of business naturally we think it tells the story of advertising very clearly . . . it goes something like this. A subscriber who found a spider in his paper wrote to the editor and asked if finding a spider in his paper meant good or bad luck. The Editor of this certain newspaper happened to be Mark Twain and he answered the subscriber thusly;

> "Dear Subscriber:
> Finding a spider in your newspaper was neither good luck nor bad luck for you. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant is not advertising, so that he can go to that store, spin his web across the door and live a life of undisturbed peace ever afterwards."

And for you lads and lassies who would like to give a good home to some little or larger dog . . . we have the following names or addresses to offer . . . just get in touch with the below parties and if you promise to give the canines good care they are yours thereafter.

Ray Bennett, Phone 3569-W . . . female dog, year old, long hair, cross English setter and fox terrier, but has terrier size.
John A. Copper, Volant R. D. 3, Phone 8043-R12 . . . Chow male dog . . . 5 months old.
710 East Reynolds . . . Part Spitz and Shepherd, 2 years old.
Mrs. L. B. Cartwright, across from St. Vitus Cemetery on Old Pittsburg Road . . . small dog, part spaniel and terrier, gentle with children.

"Tommy" Jones, traffic commissioner is working on the one side of Mill street parking plan. He hopes to have it in working order by the end of this week. If every one would cooperate with the traffic department we could go through the summer months with a minimum of accidents says Officer Jones . . . Come on folks, let's cooperate.

Stock Market Is Irregular

Prices Are Mixed At Opening—Firmer Tendencies In Later Hours

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service Financial Writer

NEW YORK, April 10.—The stock market put in an irregular performance after yesterday's jittery reaction on the German invasion of Norway and Denmark.

Prices were mixed from the opening, when many of the leaders were lower. Firmer tendencies developed in the second hour, but numerous losses remained though the declines were cut.

The paper shares added to yesterday's spectacular gains, though at a slower pace. All active issues hit new highs, and gains ran to more than a point. International Paper common was very active again, starting with 5,000 shares.

Scandinavian bonds, which collapsed yesterday, were steadier. Some Danish and Norwegian issues improved, but Denmark 5½'s of 1955 lost three points. Foreign exchanges also steadied. Scandinavian currencies, except for Sweden, again were not quoted.

Copper shares came up in the second hour after an easy start, and scored fractional gains. Rise in lead prices and firmness in other metals was a factor. International Nickel was backward.

U. S. Steel and Bethlehem regained early fractional losses, but other steels were backward. Motors were lower. American Air Lines was weak in a lower market for aviation and air line shares.

Packing shares were strong and active. Gains ran to a point in Swift, and new highs were set. Chemicals were mixed, as were the rails. U. S. Gypsum lost over a point in the building shares.

Trading was active early, but quieted down later.

May Extend Turnpike On To Philadelphia

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, April 10.—The state legislature in special session, probably next month, will be asked for authority to extend the $70,000,000 Pennsylvania Turnpoke to Philadelphia, Gov. Arthur H. James hinted.

The express highway, which now tunnels the Alleghenies between Harrisburg and Pittsburgh, will be dedicated July 4. A legislative act would be required to extend it an additional 100 miles to Philadelphia at a cost of approximately $50,000,000.

"I don't know of any subject there would be less controversy about," said the governor. "We don't put up any money. All that would be furnished by RFC and PWA, so there would be no obligation on the part of the state."

Governor James meantime forecast that Pennsylvania will be in the Republican column in this year's presidential election. He also represented himself as being a more receptive candidate for the Republican nomination.

"If it falls my lot to receive the presidential nomination at the Republican national convention, I'd assume that responsibility," he said.

Centralization of power at Washington was termed by him as the "biggest problem we have in the country today."

"Washington isn't big enough," he said. "There isn't any group big enough to run this whole country. This country is great because we have 48 states and men in them who understand their problems and know how to solve them."

Governor James pointed with pride to increased business and decreased unemployment since he took office 15 months ago.

Susquehanna River Again On Rise, But Not Out Of Control

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. April 10—A new rise in the rain-gorged waters of the Susquehanna river today failed to disturb observers in their predictions that the threats of flood were over unless there is a prolonged and unusual spell of rain.

The Susquehanna river rose for the third time in nine days but high water passed important points along the river without renewed damage.

Not more than 24 feet early today was predicted for the Wilkes-Barre area. This compared with last week's high of 31.6 feet.

Sunbury, at the confluence of the west and north branches of the Susquehanna, showed little concern over the river's rise as the water rose a few inches, still almost three feet below flood stage.

At Sayre, just below the New York-Pennsylvania boundary, and at Towanda, further downstream, some lowlands were reported awash, but river levels were well below last week's high crests.

In the work of getting out the notices of delinquent taxes to owners of about 4,000 properties by County Treasurer Earl R. Wimer, an immense amount of work has been done. The sale takes place on May 1.

First the records had to be searched to be sure of what taxes were due. Then 40,000 interest calculations had to be made, and 56,000 additions. Thirty two thousand sheets of typewriting paper were used and the advertisement will number 20,000 lines, to be run three times in two newspapers. Four thousand notices were sent out under registered mail for which the county paid $720 Five extra girls were used in addition to the regular treasurer's force and a night and day shift was used.

Some unfortunate circumstances have come to light. One woman came in and said that she had neglected to pay her 1932 school tax of $175 and the penalties and interest now amounted to almost as much. Nothing could be done as she had not taken advantage of the twenty per cent plan.
